STANFORD WINS BIG MEET BY UPSET SCORE

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 24.—UP—Dink Templeton's Stanford university tracksters, uncovering a few surprises, won its "big meet" from University of California today by a score of 75 3-8 to 55 3-8.

In winning the Cardinals resumed a dominance which interrupted only by the Bears' victory last year, had given them eleven straight victories in the dual competition between the two ancient rivals.

There was little of that ancient rivalry at stake today, as both teams had been beaten decisively by University of Southern California and neither had the stellar teams of yesterday to present.

Only one mark fell in the competition. Phil Levy, Stanford discus hurler, tossed the plate 162 feet, 1 and 5-8 inches to break the mark set by the late immortal Eric Krenz, who threw the plate 161 feet, 11 1-2 inches way back in 1930.

Another record was equalled when California's Archie Williams a great middle distance man almost certain to make America's Olympic team, sped over the 440 yard course in 48 seconds flat to equal Bud Spencer's 1928 time.

Ray Dean, Sam Klopstock, and Leo Madlem furnished the surprises which enabled the Stanford to score their win by such a decisive margin. Dean led California's crack sprinter, Mushy Pollock to the tape in the 100 yard dash.

Klopstock showed old-time form in beating Tom Moore in the high hurdles, and Madlem grabbed important points for the Templetton, taught array by taking the broad jump.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—UP—Democratic tax experts of the House Ways and Means Committee decided tonight to introduce an amendment adding $100,000,000 to first-year revenue under the new tax bill.

The amendment, it was learned by the United Press, will be designed to reinforce the Democratic contention that the new revenue bill will yield $803,000,000 the first year. It also would result in lifting revenue yield to a figure more nearly conforming to President Roosevelt's definition of tax needs.

Without the change, committee experts conceded, the measure would be passed on to the Senate at least $100,000,000 shy of majority claims for its first-year revenue.

INCREASE YIELD The proposed amendment would insure a first year yield of more than the President's recommendations, the experts said. As to the next two years there have been indications that the next session of Congress might be in better position to analyze results of the bill and revise its revenue-producing features upward if necessary.

DRAMATIC CRITIC DIES NEW YORK, April 25.—UP—Percy Hammond, one of America's most famous dramatists died late tonight of pneumonia. King Faud Of Egypt Said To Be Near Death

CAIRO, April 25.—UP—King Faud of Egypt, desperately ill, underwent an emergency blood transfusion today in an effort by his doctors to check the ravages of a disease which made them despair of his life.

A bulletin issued tonight said the king passed a fairly quiet day with no further complications or hemorrhages.

Cunningham scored honors for new national records with Don Lash, Indiana two miler, and eighth Alton Terry, of Hardin-Simmons college, Texas, both of whom set new American marks.

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT IS NEAR DEATH

passing motorists who brought her to the Richmond Cottage Hospital. It is believed that she sustained internal and head injuries. She became unconscious before officers or attendants could question her as to the cause of the accident or learn her name.

Zehring was taken to the hospital by a Wilson and Kratzer ambulance. Dr. L. Abbott Hedges pronounced him dead.

BODY IDENTIFIED
Immediate identification of the dead man and the injured girl was hampered by the fact that there were no cards in the man's pockets or in the girl's purse. Dr. Hedges, contacted the parents of the dead youth through the registration slip on the car.

A. E. Zehring, of Pinole, father of the youth, was brought to the hospital here to identify his son. He was unable to identify the girl. He said he had no idea where his son had been.

The dead youth was a native of Pinole. He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Zehring, a sister, Eleanor, and a brother, Francis.

GIRL IS INJURED
Miss Helen Cain, 22, of 2160 Dwight Way, Berkeley, sustained a possible fractured left ankle and cuts and bruises in the accident on the Tank Farm Hill highway.

Dr. James Cain, of the same address, brother of the injured girl and driver of the car, sustained slight cuts and bruises that did not necessitate hospital treatment.

FATHER UNINJURED
C. E. Cain, father of the injured couple who was riding in the rear seat of the machine, escaped without injuries.

According to C. E. Cain's account of the accident, the party was traveling toward Pinole when someone cut in from a side road, smashed into them and continued on their way. The Cains were unable to get the license number of the offending car, nor were they able to give a description of the machine.

The Cains' machine was almost completely demolished in the wreck.

The injured girl was taken to the Richmond Cottage Hospital in the Wilson and Kratzer ambulance. She was treated by Dr. L. Abbott Hedges and remained at the hospital for the night.

To Hold Conference On Milk Situation

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—UP—A conference between city officials and labor leaders was called for Monday by Mayor Angelo Rossi, following reports that strike action might halt delivery of milk in the city.

Threats that the present milk strike in Marin county, which produces about 30 percent of the city's milk, would spread here were made when some union workers said they would refuse to handle any milk coming from dairies employing non-union help.

Union leaders agreed today, however, to continue delivery through Monday to permit time for a conference.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON, April 25.—It looks as if the long and powerful arm of Andrew W. Mellon has penetrated all the way to Texas to wreck political vengeance against Wright Patman, the "Congressman who once introduced a resolution to impeach the 'great Secretary of the Treasury since Alexander Hamilton'."

Patman comes from Texarkana, Texas, in which town Mr. Mellon's Gulf Oil Company once operated the Gulf Co-op store. But after the Patman resolution, the plant—and its payroll—were moved to Fort Arthur.

Now Texas politicians report another Mellon move against Patman. A lobbyist minister, David M. Phillips, appears to be financing thru Uncle Andy to defeat the man who wanted to impeach him.

Phillips has resigned his pastorate, paid all his debts, bought a new car, and seems to have ample finances for a "Washington political campaign for Congress."

Friends of the ex-Secretary of the Treasury say that he never forgets.

EARLY CALLER

Supreme Court Justice McReynolds is noted for his irascible disposition both on and off the bench. He refuses to lunch with his colleagues, he read a newspaper while Justice Cardozo was inducted into office, and he talks in a loud, angry voice while delivering dissenting opinions.

But the Tennessee bachelor has his mellow moments, and at a recent gathering of fraternity alumni he unbosomed to the extent of relating the following story:

A Scotchman (McReynolds himself is of Scotch descent), leaving a pub one night after considerable imbibing, was approached by a Salvation Army lassie who extended her tambourine and asked for alms.

The man dropped a shilling into the tambourine and started to walk away. Then suddenly he turned and asked: "What are you going to do with that money? What's it for?"

"It's for God," replied the Scotsman, "well, in that case give it back, because, my girl, I expect to see him before you do."

SABOTAGE

Blame for the latest labor eruption on the San Francisco waterfront is being placed, privately, on the shoulders of "Uncle Dan" Roper and Miss Frances Perkins.

Labor leaders claim that had it not been for undercover sabotage by these two Cal-net members, a formula might have been worked out to bring permanent peace to the entire maritime industry. Here is what happened:

A group of New Dealers knew that another explosion was brewing on the San Francisco waterfront. And fearing the adverse political effect which continued labor disturbance might have on West Coast political sentiment, they laid before the President a plan for a permanent peace agency.

They proposed that Congress create an independent Marine Labor Authority, with powers to arbitrate disputes in this industry just as the U. S. Mediation Board does in the railroad field. This board has virtually abolished serious railway labor trouble.

JEALOUS
This was in March. The President seemed favorable to the idea; also A. F. of L. leaders and ship operators. As a result, a tentative bill was drafted and leaders on Capitol Hill were asked to put it through Congress.

In fact, everything appeared "set" for speedy action—when suddenly Roper and Miss Perkins began winking their hatchets behind the scenes.

Reason—Under the proposed bill both the Commerce and Labor Departments would have been stripped of their powers to intervene in the ship-labor field. All their authority would be transferred to the new Labor Authority.

JEALOUSY OF ANY CURTAILMENT of their powers, the two Cabinet members succeeded in pigeonholing the peace plan. It is now side-tracked somewhere in a maze of bureaucratic red tape.

ROOSEVELT BOYS
Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., probably will not repeat his feat of making the Harvard Dean's list for the second half of the scholastic year. Harold Wolff, Cambridge cramscholar, whose intelligence won Franklin the honor at mid-years has disclosed that he thinks the seion of Hyde Park has been spending too much time and energy on extracurricular activities—yawning, dancing, and attending wrestling matches. And Wolff is seldom wrong, which is why he is so successful at outwitting the university's scholars.

Collegians Demand Peace

Students at three Pacific Coast universities have demanded peace. Miss Eleanor Whipple, upper left, denounced war before a thousand students at the University of Washington in Seattle. Herman Flegman was one of the speakers during the University of California at Los Angeles rally. Peace advocates turned out 5000 citizens to hear the guest speaker of the University of California, Berkeley, group, Norman Thomas, upper right, one-time Socialist candidate for president. Lower right, four University of Washington students add a touch of satire to the Seattle meeting with their "unknown soldier" portrait of the hotel at an "unknown soldier."

'ROSE MARIE' IS FEATURE HIT AT FOX TODAY

Co-starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, "Rose Marie," romantic sensation of the year, opens at the Fox theater today.

Like its forerunner, "Naughty Marietta," "Rose Marie" was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, and the picture is said to be one of the finest productions to come out of Hollywood.

Replete with haunting music, a tender love story, magnificent photography and backgrounds, it is described as the film sensation of the year.

The musical numbers which include "Rose Marie, I Love You," "The Indian Love Call," "Song of the Mountain," and "Pardon Me, Madame," are brilliantly staged and brilliantly sung. One of the outstanding sequences is the Totem Pole dance, the grotesque set mounted on a sandspit extending into a broad lake. Peopled by more than 1000 dancers, lavishly in costume, with music thrillingly beautiful, it sets a new high for effect photography and spectacular direction, according to previewers.

In the supporting cast are James Stewart, Reginald Owen, Allen Jones, Una O'Connor and Lucien Littlefield.

The twelfth edition of "The March of Time," is included in the program.

Puts On A Show

MARY CORNELL and Tillie the dancing elephant with the Al G. Barnes circus.

The circus' Lions, tigers, clowns, acrobats, peanuts, popcorn, and horses, horses, horses.

The Al G. Barnes circus, one of the world's largest circuses will exhibit in Oakland at 45th and San Pablo on May 1, 2 and 3.

Transported aboard special trains with numerous employees in addition to advance men, an official of the circus here today furnished some statistics. A hundred head of draft horses are carried; and innumerable head of ring stock.

There are performers, representing 18 foreign countries. Riders headed by the Christian Troupe of seven Italian equestrians will be seen along with Al G. Barnes' 40 dancing horses and 40 dancing girls. The Walter, troupe of acrobats, who perform high up in the dome of the "big top" will thrill and amaze in equilibristic work. Acrobats and clowns will also be a part of the super program.

For more than a quarter of a century the Al G. Barnes Circus has excelled with its trained wild animals. More than a score of international wild animal trainers will be seen. Foremost among them will be seen Ber Nelson, who has returned to America after fresh foreign triumphs. For this season he is presenting a group of 26 lions and tigers in a display of courage, daring and patience.

Tillie, the tan dancing elephant, has gone high with this season with her ostrich-plumed crown and will have the women ogling her jealous. Mary Cornell, one of the prettiest girls with the circus, has a prominent place on Tillie's howdah, where she may also shine among the plumes.

The "Fiesta of the Rio Grande" a gorgeous professional fiesta with the charm and romance of old Spain a glorious fairland spectacle of pantomime enchantment, will open the circus performance as a prelude. Superb beyond belief, indescribable, a triumph among colossal productions, it is today sweeping all before it with its all-powerful appeal and the very vastness of its character. It is the crowning spectacle in the long, eventful career of Al G. Barnes. One thousand men and women, horses and animals participate in the stupendous spectacle. Great companies of trained singers, orchestras of vast size, grand golden-tongued organs, cymbals and trumpets will be heard. Seventy thousand dollars was expended on wardrobe for this gorgeous prologue pageant.

Performances will be given at 2 and 8 P. M. The doors will open at 1 and 7 P. M. to permit an inspection of the zoological collection or to enjoy a concert of popular and operatic music by Prof. Woelken's military band.

NEW YORK. April 25—The fight between the playwrights and managers keeps running along briskly. Latest rumor has it that Wall Street interests have put a million dollars at the disposal of the playwrights for their own productions. Looks like another Ethiopian war. . . . Put Elmer Rice apparently isn't getting any of the dough. That repertory plan he started a year ago as the "Theatre Alliance" is postponed for good. Rice tried to raise a $75,000 guarantee, but he had to quit when only $10,000 was forthcoming. . . . New to the local foreign colony is Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of the former Kaiser. He's tall, with brown eyes and hair, and looks like a Frenchman. . . . Six million people have visited the Central Park Zoo since it opened a year or so ago. The animals must be bored. . . . Harry Horlick has more stogers than any other orchestra leader in the city. Whenever he rehearses, his home he has at least ten people around to watch and give advice. He does feed them, sandwiches, though. . . . Historical Candor: Sign in a Lexington Avenue restaurant: "Pies like mother used to make before she took to bridge."

The following passage from the Christian Science with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "Heaven changed physical conditions after what seemed to be death was followed by his exaltation above all material conditions; and this exaltation explained his ascension, and revealed unmistakably a probationary and progressive state beyond the grave" (p. 46).

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Frank McCoy
JUNIOR COLLEGE OF MEDICINE
All symptoms treated. Health and Diet. No pain. No expense. No delay. No loss of time. No loss of work. No loss of sleep. No loss of appetite. No loss of energy. No loss of vitality. No loss of youth. No loss of life.

MORE ABOUT LOW BLOOD PRESSURE

Some of the causes of low blood pressure are: A flabby, relaxed tone of the blood vessel walls; lack of exercise; the habit of shallow breathing; and exhaustion of the vital powers through wrong food habits and through wasting nervous energy by destructive thinking. Some of the causes of a tired feeling, inability to concentrate, or weakness, will at the same time have the way for low blood pressure. Low blood pressure should be overcome, if for no other reason than it frequently precedes the development of disorders marked by enervation such as diabetes, tuberculosis of the lungs, and anemia.

Unless the patient has a doctor take the blood pressure he may not be aware that low blood pressure is causing the symptoms he experiences from time to time. Some of the frequent symptoms of low blood pressure are: A tired feeling, inability to concentrate, or weakness, will at the same time have the way for low blood pressure. Low blood pressure should be overcome, if for no other reason than it frequently precedes the development of disorders marked by enervation such as diabetes, tuberculosis of the lungs, and anemia.

The correction of low blood pressure depends upon building up a good quality of blood and upon developing all of the functional powers of the body. The weakness of the muscles must be gradually overcome by physical culture exercises and walking. Improvement is usually slow and the patient must be persistent to obtain the full results from his effort. Exercise alone will bring about a temporary increase in blood pressure and this increase will gradually become permanent if the patient continues to exercise until every muscle in the body possesses normal strength.

The patient must be impressed with the very real necessity which tests him of developing increased strength. Muscular strength will only follow when the muscles are used and it is folly for the patient to expect to grow strong by constant resting. One of the most beneficial activities for him is walking. I have found that the patient who will walk day after day, gradually increasing the distance covered, will find a steady improvement in the blood pressure which occurs at the same time that the walking builds up endurance.

Questions: Mrs. Wanda C. writes: "What is water-brash?"
Answer: Water-brash is the same as pyrosis and refers to the bringing up within the throat of a sour, bitter-tasting fluid. Water-brash is commonly due to using too large an amount of liquid with the meals or to over-eating. Certainly this symptom is absent when the digestion is good.

Question: Mollie V. writes: "When I am especially tired, I can feel the throbbing of the heart beat in the side of my neck and it appears as though I can feel through my head. It is a heavy, steady beat. My doctor says it does not amount to anything."
Answer: This symptom is not unusual and is commonly found in the patient with a tendency to nervousness. Avoid over-fatigue, too much excitement or strain.

Question: Mrs. George O. inquires: "What is the reason my aunt's head shakes?"
Answer: A woman is unable to attempt a definite diagnosis without first making an examination; however, it is possible that the cause is shaking palsy inasmuch as this is common in older persons and may induce a shaking of the head. Have her examined by a doctor near her.

Heat Treatments With Water Are Good Medication

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

IN ORDER to obtain the best results from the application of hot and cold baths a definite knowledge of the effects of various methods is necessary. The most general way of applying heat to the entire body is by the tub bath. For general purposes we use the so-called neutral bath; or one in which the temperature of the water is between 90 and 97 degrees. No attempt should be made to use the bath for medical purposes without a bath thermometer.

DR. CHRISMAN

Safety for Patient

Care should always be taken that the patient does not lose consciousness and slip down into the water and drown. If the tub is long and the patient short, a brace or foot rest should be placed between the foot of the tub and the patient's feet to prevent slipping. The duration of neutral baths may be from 15 to 20 minutes to many hours, according to the effects desired. They soothe the cutaneous nerves and overcome wakefulness.

They relieve cerebral congestion by quieting the circulation. They relax stiffened muscles and relieve the pain of arthritis, infections, bruises, burns and wariness. They also benefit the undisciplined and partly paralyzed muscles.

Septic infection or blood poisoning is overcome by the immersion of the part in water at a temperature of 93 to 95 degrees for hours at a time. This lowers the fever, relieves the pain and swelling and permits discharge. In brain and nervous conditions the very warm bath relieves the excitement and delirium and induces sleep.

Gentle massage and rubbing while in the bath adds greatly to its benefits. One of the most useful treatments for almost any illness accompanied by pain and discomfort in any part of the body is the application of hot fomentations. Like any other treatment, there is a right and a wrong way to do it, and it is just as easy to do it rightly as wrongly.

They can be applied to any portion of the body and are always helpful, furnishing much comfort to the patient. Every family should have a so-called set of fomentation cloths. An old blanket can be torn into quarters and can be folded to the size required to treat the case. Two of these strips are used for an application.

Using the Heat

Fold the strip to the desired size; small if to be applied around a knee or ankle, large if you wish to apply to the back or abdomen. Place one strip on a table and fold to suit. Fold the other strip a little smaller. Grasp the latter strip by the ends, dip the middle in a bucket of hot water, keeping the ends dry. Twist the ends to remove excess water and wring out as much as possible. Grasp one end and shake it out smooth and quickly lay it on the dry strip. Fold up to keep in the heat and apply it around the affected part.

Raising it up if too hot, wipe the moisture off the skin, reapplying at once. As soon as this cools prepare the other pair of cloths and place them quickly. Three or four applications of a few minutes will be sufficient.

Then dry the skin, rub gently with alcohol or witch hazel. This can be modified to suit almost any condition.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "Upon taking food that is too hot into the mouth, how may one dispose of it?"

ANSWER: He may not. Once food has been taken into the mouth, it should not be removed. A swallow of water will cool it off. To avoid such catastrophes, it is wise to form a habit of taking but a small taste of food at first, as a test for flavor as well as temperature.

If more persons did this, we would soon eliminate those who shake salt and pepper onto food before investigating whether any added season is needed. They have caused many a hostess considerable annoyance.

Women Now Quite Frank On Make-Up

By JACQUELINE HUNT

WOMEN have always desired beauty. And they have always felt that they could improve upon the assets that nature gave them. But in former years they practiced their beauty alchemy in the dim secrecy of their own chambers. Today women make no effort to keep secret the fact that they resort to every possible trick to improve their appearance.

This frankness and sincerity has done more than anything to bring about the improvement in cosmetics and the methods of using them. A woman no longer hesitates to admit that she uses mascara. She will tell you that without it her eyes are too small, but that with an extra touch of darkening on her lashes her eyes hold the important place in her facial ensemble that they should.

Women admit that their "touch up" their hair occasionally and even share their successful beauty tricks with their friends. The matter of dyeing or bleaching the hair was the last to be accepted, but now women are as sensible about it as they are about the use of rouge. And why not? If a rinse or dyeing bleach gives your hair life and highlights and makes you a more attractive person, why shouldn't you use it? Hair with gloss and highlights is always lovely.

In giving nature a hand begin with your eyes. Blend your rouge well upward and softly into the area between your cheekbones and lower lashes. This trick will keep the interest in your face centered where you want it. Rouge also gives your eyes brilliance and depth.

Every woman strives for a complexion that is flawless, and you will have to admit that it is a year-round, serious job. Every season brings its own problems and its magic in the form of creams, tonics and lotions compounded to help you.

One of the most effective springtime beauty aids is the simple white cream and lotion that your mother allowed you to use when you were a little girl and your hands were red and chapped from making mud pies.

Buy a big bottle of it and use it for cleansing and soothing your skin when you come in from gardening or driving in the crisp spring breeze. Smooth it on liberally and remove the last application with tissues. Apply more and massage it well into the skin. It will feel soft, velvety and comfortable. If your skin is severely wind-burned or chapped, use several applications—on your hands, too.

If you have an average skin that hasn't perked up as much as you would like this spring, try this gentle toning treatment. Splash your face with tepid water, then cool, until you feel wide awake. Take a pad of cotton and moisten it with skin tonic. Dip into your jar of cleansing cream and spread over your skin with light upward strokes.

Leave on a few minutes, then wipe with skin tissues. Pour a little tonic into the palm of your hand and pat briskly over your skin.

Let dry, then apply your make-up. Or, if you expect to go out into the sun immediately, apply a small amount of suntan oil or sunproof cream before using your cosmetics.

Tempting Dishes Possible For the Wife With a Job

By JUDITH WILSON

COLORFUL, satisfying dinners that take little more than half an hour to prepare are the aim of every young wife who holds a job or of single business girls who like to cook and entertain at home. With a little thought and planning the menu shown here can be cooked in this time.

When you get home from business, light your oven and while it is heating you can change your clothes, put a kettle of water to boil for some sweetbreads and scrub some potatoes. Bake a few extra to help you out with tomorrow's dinner.

- ### SUPPERS
- Tomato Bisque with Orange Slices
 - Sweetbreads on Toast with Creamed Peas
 - Baked Sweet Potatoes
 - Fudge Cake
 - Coffee

- ### Salad Appetizer
- Breaded Pork Tenderloins
 - Battered String Beans
 - Candied Sweet Potatoes
 - Strawberry Shortcake
 - Coffee

Drop two pairs of sweetbreads into the boiling water to which 1 teaspoon lemon juice and salt has been added. Boil for 15 minutes, drain, remove the membranes and divide into sections. While the sweetbreads are boiling you can set the table and bring out the serving dishes. Now dip the trimmed sweetbreads into evaporated milk or top milk and then into fine breadcrumbs and saute slowly in butter.

While the sweetbreads are browning, open a can of peas and save the liquid. In a saucepan melt 1/2 tablespoons butter, stir in 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and a few grains of pepper. Add 1 cup of the liquid from the peas, stir until smooth, then add 1 cup evaporated milk or top milk and cook until the sauce is thick. Add the peas.

When the sweetbreads are well browned, arrange on slices of buttered toast and pour the creamed peas over them.

Breaded Pork Tenderloins For the second menu have the butcher prepare pork tenderloins for you at the market. Season them well with salt and pepper, dip into beaten egg and then in fine bread crumbs. Fry in plenty of fat in an iron skillet until nicely browned. Drain on a hot platter until ready to serve.

The string beans in this menu require longest cooking, so they should be put on first in rapidly

Speaking of Style

Things Right For Summer Are Listed

By IRENE VAIL

New York — Formality gives way to summer's simple manner of living and clothes, which is natural, reflects this transition.

Fashion interest is now in the development of the several themes with which the style-minded must be familiar. What's happening now, as the actual fashion parade gets under way, is old stuff to those who have been nosing around and peeking through key holes in order to get some fashion "firsts" and to be in at the birth of a new style.

All of which moves me to list a few reminders for the benefit of my friends, the readers of this newspaper. Here they are:

Spaced sheer prints in black and white, navy and white or May wine and white for commuter's "all-day and into the night" costumes.

Sheer prints with either small or splashy designs for street-length dinner frocks.

Black and navy silk shantung in neat tailcoats for town or weekend wear.

White, yellow, pink, and pale blue "sharkskin" weave for slacks, separate sports coats, culotte frocks, tennis dresses, separate skirts, suits and evening wear.

Sheer silk marquisette, slipper satin, pastel printed taffeta and chiffon in summer petticoats.

Widely spaced prints in colorful floral patterns on white heavy crepes or heavy sheer basketweaves for evening.

Crisp sheers for evening—starched or stiffened mouselines, silk or acetate organdie, crisp marquisette, and starched triple sheers.

Cream white grounds in colorful small-spaced sports prints, for spectator wear.

Violet, London tan, coral and deep yellows as foils for white.

For both evening and sportswear. Violet and velvety woolens.

Vonnet and velvety woolens. The two have been synonymous for years—and with the coat silhouettes launched by this designer sponsored here would also get a big play.

Realizing that he had been using the wrong tactics, dad reached out and grabbed her. Quickly, he shut the bathroom door. The frightened child now blinked her eyes and tears flowed fast.

"Stop crying, Molly." Of course this command was useless under the circumstances. Dad poured out some castor oil. Finally he managed to force it down her throat. This nauseated the child and made her quite sick.

Most of the fussing on a child's part over taking medicine is induced by the parent's apprehension. He feels sorry for the child and by his pleading or blustering betrays that he expects to get some opposition.

Parents should try to make the taking of unpleasant medicine as easy as possible for a child. A direct method is best.

Try "Take this. And here's a little fruit juice (or crust of bread, or orange or lemon to suck on afterward) to take the taste away." Thus you make it possible for him to behave sensibly.

It is likely that this move will shock your unimaginative spouse into a realization of his shortcomings and jolt him into a consciousness of his lack of consideration.

Fun in Daytime

Our prescribed social order seems to expect wives to stay at home nights even though it bonds them husbands who, bored at home, take themselves off for fun among their kind. This being the case, it's up to the bored wife to seek the society of her kind during the hours when business claims her husband's time and attention.

She should make as merry as she can when the sun shines, and so be reasonably content to sit by the fire and spin after dark.

The world being full to overflowing with other bored wives, there should be no difficulty in finding sympathetic companionship.

There's plenty stirring for two enterprising women in the practice of letting off accumulated steam.

Since gardening is one of your pleasures, why not concentrate on it? By this I mean why not join your local garden club. There must be one. If you do that, you will have interesting contacts with much in common to discuss.

Bride clubs are not the only form of recreation. Why not go in for golf, for instance?

An enthusiastic golfer never has any time for anything else so, if you are of a vengeful nature, I suggest golf.

Seriously, why not encourage your husband to try his hand at it, too? You might find common ground on the green, and that would be nice of all, wouldn't it?

After all, there is no substitute for the companionship of one's husband.

MODERN WOMEN

Another Bored Wife Tells Story of Her Difficulties

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

TIME marches on. Instead of husbands complaining about being bored by their wives, it's wives who are complaining about being bored by their husbands. And what to do about it? Even in these enlightened days women balk at the privileges of cramming on their hats and "going for a walk." A woman writes to me:

"My dear Mrs. Martin: I read with interest a recent column of yours in which a wife complained about being left to amuse herself while her husband buried himself in a book. I can sympathize with her. My husband might just as well never come home for all that the companionship he provides me with is anything that happens out of the ordinary. I never take the slightest interest in domestic affairs, I'm bored to death with my friends, doesn't take any interest in gardening, which is one of my greatest pleasures, and is, in fact, so self-centered that I get dreadfully discouraged and so bottled up emotionally that I feel that I will blow up."

"I'm not the kind to seek consolation elsewhere, and frankly I don't think he does. But life is so humdrum and I'm so fed up with keeping myself company that I just couldn't help joining in the chorus of complaint against selfish husbands."

"Just Another Bored Wife."

When husbands become bored with their wives they usually break out in some sort of folly, go off and have a time for themselves, after which they feel better for having lifted the load of domestic depression off their chests.

Wives do not seem to feel privileged to go and do likewise, or else they lack imagination or the necessary spirit of adventure.

They do need emotional relief and should have it. It might be in different forms but the idea is the same.

What the wife who writes today needs is the talk of a good audience and adventures of those of a domestic nature. How about the usual prescription to some friend or relative, leaving the self-absorbed husband?

It's dangerous business to allow pent-up emotion to gather force, for sooner or later it means blowing up one's husband, the unwitting cause of it all.

Don't wait for the blow-off. Make arrangements to take yourself off somewhere where there is merit of some sort, or at least a change of atmosphere. Tell your uncommunicative husband that you've simply got to exercise your vocal cords once in a while and that, since you don't find your husband completely satisfying, you feel impelled, since he shows no disposition to change with you, to take a little vacation.

It is likely that this move will shock your unimaginative spouse into a realization of his shortcomings and jolt him into a consciousness of his lack of consideration.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Colic—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!

The liver should pour out two pints of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It sits down in the bowels. Gas builds up. You are constipated. You are uncomfortable. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, tired and the world looks grim.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A new royal movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely. You feel better, your skin is clear, your stomach is empty, your bowels are regular, your whole system is healthy and you feel like a new man.

JUDGES ARE BUSY

Chris Gatter had charge of the contest and judges were headed by C. K. Parker. He was assisted by Scout committeemen from various local fraternal and civic organizations.

In addition to the field events held during the day, the boys were judged on personal appearance, the manner in which they erected the camp and so on.

After the events had been concluded the patrols gathered once more at their patrol kitchens and had dinner.

PROGRAM HELD

In the evening a program was presented around the blazing campfire. Harold Garrard had charge.

The event opened with ceremonies by the Knights of Dunamis; a fire lighting ceremony was held; stunts were presented by the various patrols; a pillow fight was held; songs were enjoyed with George Miller, Jr., as song leader; and closing ceremonies were then held. A few minutes later "Taps" were sounded and the camp slept.

BREAK CAMP TODAY

The boys will be aroused at an early hour this morning, will have breakfast and at about 8 o'clock will break camp.

Scout Executive Donald F. Seaman, who has charge of the camp, explained yesterday that the camporee is in preparation for the big camporee to be held at Crockett soon. The local event gave the Richmond boys much needed experience for the competition at Crockett. At the later camporee, patrols will be selected to attend the yearly camp at Sacramento in October.

Lewis Hall had charge of physical arrangements for the local camp and B. C. McBryde, of Rodeo, assisted him.

Unusual Cal. Campaign Is Nearing End

Liam Gillos McAdoo, would be certain to win over those pledged nominally to Upton Sinclair and Congressman John Steven McGowan. The Democratic campaign, therefore, fails to attract the interest ordinarily accorded it.

Aside from the major parties there are no other tickets entered in the primary. Prohibition, Socialist, and Communist party ballots will be available at polling places, but they will be blank, and unless there is a concerted write-in drive by members of those parties, California will not be officially represented at their national convention.

TO NAME SENATOR

No other issues are at stake in California, except in Siskiyou and Del Norte counties, where voters will select the successor to State Senator Henry McQuinn, who died recently.

The Republican contest holds the center of attention because of the interests involved and the unusual rift, which destroyed party harmony at a time when the Republicans everywhere were seeking a unified method of defeating President Roosevelt.

of the crimes. Clues without number and "hot tips" have been run down, all ending in a blank wall. Yet the search goes on and although the fiends may ultimately be located the chances are against it with the lapse of time.

There are five fiendish murders on the police blotter in San Diego, crimes which on account of the element showing their commission by pervers, are particularly revolting. The aid of the best criminologists in the state was invoked, promising leads were developed and followed, but in the five cases, although many people were questioned only one arrest was made. Trial in this case resulted in an acquittal.

I do not think or believe that any master criminal mind plotted any or all of these crimes. In fact I doubt if the perpetrators were people of ordinary intelligence, therefore, I cannot entertain the idea of any preconceived plan to outwit the police and baffle them. Despite this there are still five fiends yet at large with hands dripping with blood and ready, when occasion offers to repeat the offense. Ordinarily a criminal is unable to cheat the law or escape its long arm of retribution, but now and then he does.

Undoubtedly the odds are greatly against the wrongdoer. If this were not true, society would be lacking in protection, and life and property would be at the mercy of the vicious, but it is folly to say the lawbreaker is invariably caught, for unfortunately it is not true.

SHORTAGE OF FOODS FOR 'SQUATTERS'

TRENTON, N. J., April 25.

—UP—Violence was feared tonight at the State capitol building where grim-faced unemployed men and women, who have been camped in the Assembly chambers since Tuesday in protest against the legislature's failure to provide relief funds, looked to a desolate week end.

The squatters were grave and there was none of the mock levity with which they first amused themselves when they went into the chamber as the legislators adjourned.

FUNERAL IS HELD

Many of the unemployed went to the funeral of one of their number, who died of pneumonia. Others offered their blood for transfusion to the ailing nine-year-old son of another "bunker" man. The squatters blamed the legislature for the death and the illness, claiming the provisions of the emergency law were responsible in each instance. Governor Harold G. Hoffman's refusal to divert funds to relief from other sources—on the ground such a diversion could be made only to repel an invasion or suppress insurrection, caused grave concern. A leader of the campers said bitterly:

POLICE ON GUARD

"This is an insurrection. If the governor doesn't realize it now he soon will."

The serious-minded crowd cheered its approval. Capitol police and State officials feared this threat of possible violence and increased their vigilance against infiltration of radical leaders. Communist agitators came from New York yesterday. They were ushered out roughly when they attempted to address the jobless "squatters."

RATIONS DROPPING

The campers faced well the first few days but rations dropped to coffee and beans today as contributions from merchants diminished. The multigun stew they had eaten each noon was missing from the menu. That and the death of George W. Elhoff and the critical illness of Donald Bonaparte, 8, caused the replacement of good-natured burlesque with seriousness.

Further discouragement came from a conference of legislative leaders after an eleven-hour cancellation of a special session of the State Assembly. Out of the conference came word that deliberation would be taken in any relief consideration to assure a sound program.

WANT JAIL

The jobless feared that the announcement indicated no relief legislation would be pushed at the special session called for Monday night. They pledged themselves to fight any attempt to delay the relief legislation even if it means going to jail.

"We might as well go to jail, where the State will have to feed us," leaders said, "as to sit peacefully back and have the law-makers do nothing."

Pauper's Oath Will Be Taken By Jake Berman

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—UP—The decision by Jacob Berman, Julian Petrovich swindler, to take the pauper's oath or return to his cell in Alcatraz because he cannot pay a fine of $15,000, is expected to be made Monday, federal officials said today.

Berman was brought over from the federal prison and placed in the county jail this week. If he obtains his release from Alcatraz it is expected he will be taken into custody immediately by Los Angeles authorities, and sent to San Quentin to serve a term of from one to 10 years on state charges growing out of the oil scandal.

U. S. Attorney H. H. McPike said today he did not know what course of action Berman would take, and that the government was not interested. "I have not seen him," McPike said, "nor has he requested to see me." He believes, however, when Sanford Bates, federal prison chief, and James A. Johnston, warden of Alcatraz, return here from Los Angeles, that some definite action will be decided upon.

JUDGES NAMED

District Attorney Francis P. Healey, Superintendent of Schools Edwin Wilson, Martinez, and Postmaster Lester Thomas of Richmond have been named by St. Mary's College to be judges of papers to be submitted by aspirants for college scholarships.

those progressive policies of government in the making of which so many of us have had a part. New York State has an unbroken record of almost a generation of liberal government, each succeeding administration of state affairs building for the future upon the best which the past has given us."

SMITH IGNORED

A reference to the "loyal competent and unselfish service" of Governor Herbert Lehman followed. Smith was not mentioned by name. The recently organized Republican "brain trust" and Herbert Hoover's 1932 "crisis in the city streets" remark both drew sarcastic references as the President re-stated the economic objectives of the New Deal.

MUST UNITE

He attacked a recovery plan which he said had been proposed by a "newly organized brain trust—not mine," and said that each time he came to New York he looked "for that grass which was to grow in the city streets."

"Not so long ago," said the President, "it was the farm against the city and the city against the farm. From now on it both are to survive, it must be the farm with the city and the city with the farm."

He emphasized the joint stake of farmers and city dwellers in the recovery objectives of the New Deal.
